

Je ne sais quoi

je ne sais quoi (n) an indefinable quality that makes somebody or something more attractive or interesting

Do you have it in you? Of course, everyone has it. The question is how to make that comes out. Sometimes people especially those with low self-esteem just can't realize it and in the end it makes them bitter and envious to others who can.

I have this friend of mine, who is actually really sweet, nice and lovable. And she (can be) fun too! Sadly, she never realizes it and it makes her constantly whining about her appearance, career and even love life! Worse, she start envying others who (she thinks) more attractive, secure and successful. Slowly she became that person: boring, envious, resentful, in short : suck!

Some people have the luck, some people don't. But know this, even the most miserable person has a good quality in him/her. Life is too short, live it to the fullest and don't fret over something trivial. Then, even before you know it, you have it: je ne sais quoi!